SCHEDULE B

REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Historical Significance

St. John's Anglican Church is located near the village of South March, former Township of March, now in the City of Kanata. In the 1830's General Arthur Lloyd initiated the process to build an Anglican church inland from the Ottawa River and succeeded in raising funds to build a church, a rectory and provision for a cemetery. General Lloyd and Hamnet Pinhey, the local Clergy Reserve agent, succeeded in obtaining a site in Lot 10, Concession 4, March Twp. in 1839. Alexander Christie, contractor son of Dr. A.J. Christie of March and Bytown won the contract for erecting the church building. On July 22, 1839, the cornerstones for the church and rectory were laid by the wife of General Lloyd with Reverend Stewart Harper officiating.

In 1840, the church was dedicated. Amidst the rigours of pioneer life, the building was a tremendous symbol, repository and encapsulation of the early settlers of March Township of their hopes for a better life.

Architectural Significance

The original building is rectangular measuring 34'x54'-0" on the exterior. The walls are of rough brown limestone, randomly coursed and are approximately 2 feet thick. A simple gable roof with an approximate 8/12 pitch and sheathed with metal shingles covers the building. Windows are Gothic with stained glass panels. They are situated three to each long side, one at the altar end, and two partially blocked windows on the entry gable with a pointed entrance in the centre. The entry gable faces south toward old Highway 17, now March Road.

Stylistically speaking, the church building is a part of the classical tradition. The simple rectangular plan, overall form, massing and roof slope coupled with the classical details of boxed cornice and an arched ceiling attest to that fact. A close relationship existed between the classical style and the introduction of the Anglican faith to Canada. During the eighteenth century and into the nineteenth century the classical style dominated ecclesiastical architecture in the English-speaking world. It was led by Wren, Hawksmoor and Gibbs.

Yet, even as in every way the building is essentially classical, in the choice of windows, the parishioners showed their picturesque sensibility which was soon leading to the Gothic Revival.

This designation applies only to the exterior of St. John's Church. It does not include the parish hall addition or the interior of the church.

This is Schedule "B" to
By-law No. 104-90 passed by the Council of the City of Kanata this 26th day of June, 1990.
