BY-LAW NUMBER (1986) - 12310SCHEDULE "B"STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR DESIGNATION"KER CAVAN" 20 AND 26 STUART STREET, GUELPH, ONTARIO

Probably Guelph's most significant house architecturally and historically. One of the few surviving examples in Canada of the Tudor type of the Gothic Revival style.

Built 1854-56 for Rev. Arthur Palmer of St. George's Anglican Church, later Archdeacon of Toronto. Design features are typical of Sir Charles Barry, leading British architect of the Victorian era. More likely designed by William Thomas, Toronto, or Frederick J. Rastrick, Hamilton, both prominent Canadian architects of the mid-19th Century and both acquaintances of Sir Charles Barry.

Owned by Archdeacon Palmer until 1875. Later owned by Alexander B. Petrie, Senior, Druggist and Manufacturer, and his family, for about 40 years; by Henry B. Higinbotham, retired international insurance executive, and his wife, between 1925 and 1954, and by Brigadier Kenneth Torrance, retired, until his death in October 1958. Since 1960, the house has served as a nursing home and rest home and as the family home for the operators, Ernest and Agnes Przekop.

Appearance of the original southwesterly facade is known as it is illustrated in bas-relief on the main fireplace mantel-piece of "Sunnyside" (16 Arthur Street North). The house was expanded and altered circa 1875. H. Reginald Coales, Architect, was responsible for further enlargement and sensitive remodelling during the period 1925-1928.

The following exterior elements of the main house, at 20 Stuart Street, are to be designated due to their architectural significance:

- (a) All of the existing stone walls and structures and the form of the openings in those walls and structures, except for the deepening of two second-floor windows in the southeast wall to become doors.
- (b) The form and massing of the roofs, including the matching set of existing dormers.
- (c) The general outward appearance of all existing windows, including vertical mullions, except for two second-floor windows in the southeast wall, which may become compatible doors.
- (d) The main Stuart Street door, unless replaced by a door more in keeping with residential design of the period 1850-1875.
- (e) The existing chimneys.

Inside, the following features are to be designated due to their architectural significance:

- (a) 19th-Century plaster ceilings, medallions and mouldings in the library and living room, including ears of maize, Tudor roses and Classical rosettes.
- (b) 19th-Century fireplaces in the living room and library.

- (c) The staircase in the main hall.
- (d) All Gothic arches in, or opening onto, the main hall at the ground and second floor levels.
- (e) Two original wooden doors, with tops in the form of a pointed Gothic arch, opening off the main hall at the second floor level.
- (f) Original wooden doors opening off the ground floor main hall featuring a vertical centre-groove.
- (g) Finished wood-panelled window enclosures and finished wooden interior shutters in the south-west wall of the library.
- (h) Folding interior wooden shutters in the matching oriel windows of the living room and the master bedroom, immediately above the living room.
- (i) Built-in bookshelves across the south-east wall of the library.
- (j) All leaded glass windows in the exterior walls of the building.
- (k) Decorative ceiling in the main entry vestibule, Stuart Street side.

It is understood that later owners may return some non-original features to documented earlier design, if desired.

The areas of land defined by Schedule "C" attached are also designated to ensure that an appropriate setting is retained for the house. This includes all major existing trees within these areas, for as long as they are judged by qualified arborists to be healthy. The designation excludes bushes or hedges and driveways existing at the time of designation and does not prevent use of the designated land for driveway, walkway, garden, swimming pool, patio or any other surface use.

The exterior of the existing coach-house (26 Stuart Street), built circa 1928-1929, is designated as part of the setting, with the exception of the garage doors on the southeasterly wall, the greenhouse and the one-storey addition on the southwesterly wall.
