Description

Statement of Significance

Description of Historic Place: i.e. Description of Property	10½ King Street West is located on the south side of King Street, West of William Street in the City of Chatham, Municipality of Chatham-Kent. The property consists of a three-storey salmon-brick commercial building that was constructed circa 1880.
Heritage Value: i.e. Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest	Historical or Associative Value:  10½ King Street West is associated with the commercial history of downtown Chatham. It has housed a variety of business including that of J.W. Bedford. Design or Physical Value:  10½ King Street West is an excellent example of 1880s commercial architecture with Italianate influences. Typical of the Italianate style is the symmetrical façade, the cornice with brackets and the polychromatic brick detailing. The commercial architecture is evident in the large first storey shop windows, the flat roof and the tall second and third storeys. The windows are decorated with straight labels on the second storey and pointed labels on the third storey. The windows feature concrete sills on both the second and third storeys and the façade is broken up by four brick pilasters. Later wood and plaster decorative details have been added, including detailing at the base of the pilasters, trim over the windows of the second storey windows and bands above and below the third storey windows. Original documentation shows the presence of a decorative centre pediment on the roofline, however drawings from 1978 do not show the current details indicating that it was likely rebuilt during restoration. Contextual Value:  King Street is the historic main street of Chatham and the south side has historically been the busier side of the street, housing some of the oldest brick buildings in the City. This area has come to represent the centre of business and the home to many of the area's hostelrys. Throughout the 1850s and 60s, the corner of King and William Streets housed the first Baptist Church and from there along the south side of King to the Market Square was a series of wood frame shops, such as William Northwood's grocery store, the Dublin House and R.O. Smith's furniture store. The corner's historic prominence was enhanced by the nearby industry across McGregor's Creek, including the T.H. Taylor Woollen Mill at 14 William Street North, built in 1869, and the Beaver Flour Mill, built in 1872, but which burnt down in the 1980s. It was not until the 1880s that these buildings at King and William Streets were replaced with the brick structures that exist today and have come to house many of the City's most successful businesses. The structures from the Bates Building at 28-34 William Street South and around the corner to 16 King Street West form a continuous commercial front. Most of these buildings are two or three storeys, therefore maximizing their frontage on the main street. The basements of all the structures on this prominent corner were connected and it was believed that they were used in rum running during the era of prohibition. Sources:  Chatham Directory, 1876-1877, 1915, 1919.
