SCHEDULE "A"
REASONS FOR DESIGNATION
(Statement of Significance)

Description

The property at 243 Perth Avenue is worthy of designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act for its cultural heritage value, and meets the criteria for municipal designation prescribed by the Province of Ontario under the three categories of design, associative and contextual values. Located on the northeast corner of Perth Avenue and Wallace Avenue, the building was completed in 1913 as Perth Avenue Methodist Church. The site was listed on the City of Toronto Inventory of Heritage Properties in 2008.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value

Perth Avenue Methodist Church has design value as a representative example of an early 20th century church designed in the Neo-Gothic style. Distinguished by the use of medieval-inspired elements such as pointed-arch openings, buttresses and towers, the style was popular for churches in the early 1900s.

The site has been associated for nearly a century with congregations of the Methodist Church in Canada, the United Church of Canada, and the Seventh Day Adventist Church. According to the United Church Archives, the origins of Perth Avenue Methodist Church date to the late 19th century when a Methodist congregation was established in the neighbourhood northeast of Bloor Street West and Dundas Street West. In 1892, the church became known as Perth Avenue Methodist Church, and in 1913 the current building was completed. The congregation joined the newly formed United Church of Canada in 1925. Perth Avenue United Church amalgamated with Davenport Road United Church at 1900 Davenport Road as Davenport-Perth United Church in the early 1970s. Since that time, the Toronto Perth Seventh Day Adventist Church has occupied the site at 243 Perth Avenue.

Perth Avenue Methodist Church was designed by the Toronto architectural firm of G. M. Miller and Company, according to plans dated 1910. After forming a private practice in the late 1800s, George Miller was noted for his association with Toronto's prominent Massey family, for whom he co-designed Massey Hall (completed in 1894). Among his many well-known commissions are the Lillian Massey Building (1908-1912) at 153 Bloor Street West, the former Havergal Ladies College (1898) at 354 Jarvis Street and the Gladstone Hotel (1889-1890) at 1204 Queen Street West, all of which are designated under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act.

Contextually, with its prominent location on a corner lot, Perth Avenue Methodist Church is a local landmark in the neighbourhood northeast of the intersection of Bloor Street West and Dundas Street West. The community developed within the triangle outlined by the three railway lines that were extended through the district in the late 19th century, attracting factories, workers' housing and schools and churches.
