Description of Property – 501 Cole Avenue, Ottawa

The house located at 501 Cole Avenue is a two-and-one-half storey, red brick clad building with a truncated hip roof constructed in 1913 and located on the east side of Cole Avenue, south of Kenwood Avenue, in the Highland Park neighbourhood in Ottawa's west end.

Statement of cultural heritage value or interest

The cultural heritage value of 501 Cole Avenue lies in its contextual value for its contribution to the character of the Highland Park neighbourhood and its design value as an example of early twentieth century vernacular residential architecture.

501 Cole Avenue has contextual value as a house designed and constructed subject to John E. Cole's requirements for large residences in Highland Park. Cole, one of a number of dairy farmers in Ottawa's west end in the late 19th century, subdivided his land in 1898 with the vision of creating a prosperous, cohesive suburban neighbourhood and included a covenant on the area's large lots to ensure development was in keeping with this vision. The house is situated on a large lot that features mature trees along the property line, a green front lawn and a generous setback in keeping with the character of other houses from this period in Highland Park.

501 Cole Avenue has design value as a typical early 20th century example of vernacular suburban residential architecture. Typical of the time period, it features Edwardian Classicist elements including the red brick cladding central two storey porch with simple columns and triangular pediment, a central hipped dormer, and a stone foundation.

Description of Heritage Attributes

Key exterior attributes that contribute to the contextual heritage value are:

- The generous front yard setback from Cole Avenue; and,
- The green front lawn and mature trees along the property lines.

Key exterior elements that contribute to the heritage value as an example of early twentieth century vernacular suburban residential architecture in Highland Park:

- Simple square plan and the siting of the building on the lot;
- Red brick cladding;
- Central two storey front porch with pedimented roof;
- Symmetrical front façade with rectangular windows on either side of central two storey porch; and,
- Truncated hip roof.
