IN THE MATTER OF THE ONTARIO HERITAGE ACT
R.S.O. 1990, CHAPTER O.18 AND
CITY OF TORONTO, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO
409 HURON STREET

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DESIGNATE THE PROPERTY

TAKE NOTICE that Council for the City of Toronto intends to designate the property, including the lands, buildings and structures thereon known municipally as 409 Huron Street under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990, c.O.18, as amended, as a property of cultural heritage value or interest.

This notice is being served to the Owner of the Property, the Ontario Heritage Trust, and any Objectors and Interested Persons.

Reasons for Designation

The property at 409 Huron Street is worthy of designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act for its cultural heritage value, and meets Ontario Regulation 9/06, the provincial criteria prescribed for municipal designation, under the categories of design/physical value, historical/associative, and contextual value.

Description

The property at 409 Huron Street comprises a two-and-a-half storey, detached house-form building that is clad in red brick with a stone base. On the primary (west) façade, the building demonstrates the Queen Anne Revival style, which was popular during the late 19th and turn of the 20th centuries. Architectural details include a Dutch gable above a central two-storey bay window, brick voussoirs with stone keystones above most windows, stone sills, and a hipped roof with dormers, a window with an original arched transom in the front dormer, and a brick chimney. The main entrance of the house, accessed by an exterior staircase, is elevated for entry to the ground floor. The entrance includes a wooden doorframe and transom window. The building's original fenestration is varied, including small square windows on the north elevation. Like the neighbouring houses along Huron Street, the building is set back from the street on a landscaped lot. The property backs onto bpNichol Lane and has surface parking at the north and rear (east) sides. A large three-storey rear addition dates to 1955.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value

The property at 409 Huron Street is a representative example of Queen Anne Revival architecture, demonstrating the whimsical, asymmetrical composition that is characteristic of the style. Key intact features include a two-storey bay window, brick voussoirs with stone keystones above most windows, a hipped roof with dormers and a brick chimney, and a Dutch gable on the primary elevation.

Constructed in 1903, the building demonstrates the work of Frederick Henry Herbert, an accomplished architect who practiced in Toronto in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Herbert was noted for his residential designs that promoted the Queen Anne Revival style, as seen at 409 Huron Street.

Situated at the north end of a late Victorian streetscape along the east side of Huron Street, the property is important in maintaining and supporting the character of the area. The building's scale, form, materials, and architectural details contribute to a consistent assemblage of detached and semi-detached residences. The property is functionally, visually, and historically linked to its context in the Huron-Sussex neighbourhood. Contemporaneous with the surrounding area, the building was part of a wave of residential development in the late nineteenth and turn of the twentieth centuries, and shares many of the neighbourhood's key architectural characteristics. The building's ongoing use since the 1960s as a student residence has reinforced the interconnectedness between Huron-Sussex and the University of Toronto St. George Campus.
