SCHEDULE "B"

TO BY-LAW NO. 62 - 89

OF THE

CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF CAMBRIDGE

HISTORICAL DESCRIPTION

The home was built for Alexander Macgregor in 1862. Macgregor was a prominent businessman in the community becoming a partner in the firm Osborne, Spiers and Company. The sign on his Main Street office declared "Alexander Macgregor - Accountant, conveyancer, land insurance and general agent." Macgregor held a variety of civic positions including councillor, deputy reeve, school trustee and secretary treasurer of Knox's Church. Macgregor also issued marriage licences. The leather bound book listing the names of 706 couples who obtained their licenses from Alexander is held by the Cambridge Public Archives.

ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE:

Built in 1862, possibly by the firm of Bloomfield and McDougal, 190 St. Andrews Street was a one and half storey house of Classical Ontario style. In the 1870's an addition, Italianate in detail, with a tuscan tower and two storey wing was added to the front of the house, symbolizing the changing architectural tastes of the time. The foundation is rubble limestone with the exterior wall material of white rough cast rodded to simulate ashlar.
