SCHEDULE “B” TO BY-LAW NO. 2023-0056

REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The property at 20 Queen Street in Georgetown contains a one-and-a-half-storey residential building with hipped roof situated within the central portion of the treed lot, with a one-storey garage at the rear accessed via a laneway from Albert Street. The house sits above street level upon a grassed slope, with a stepped dry stone retaining wall above the sidewalk along Queen Street.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The George C. Kennedy House at 20 Queen Street has physical and design value as an excellent example of a brick, Gothic-Revival residential building in the community of Georgetown. The house has retained its one-and-a-half storey form, symmetrical front façade and entrance, dichromatic brick with stone detailing, original window openings on the front and side elevations, and wooden soffit and bargeboard along the eaves.

The George C. Kennedy House also has historical and associative value relating to its associations with the founding family of Georgetown, the Kennedy family. In the 1850s, George Kennedy laid out this survey around the new railway station, and the existing house at 20 Queen Street was built circa 1855 by George Couse Kennedy, son of George and his wife Harriet Kennedy. George C. Kennedy was the owner of the village foundry. The property is also associated with Edward McCannah, stationmaster for the Grand Trunk Railway at Georgetown Station, member of Town Council and Collector of Taxes in Georgetown.

Contextually, the George C. Kennedy House has value as one of several historic properties along Queen Street in Georgetown that defines, maintains and supports the historic character of the area. The property and house are physically and historically linked to several of the existing residences along the street, many of which were constructed by Edward McCannah.

Heritage Attributes

The identified heritage attributes of the property at 20 Queen Street that contribute to its physical and design value and historical and associative value include:

- The setback, placement and orientation of the c.1855 George C. Kennedy House above the east side of Queen Street, Georgetown;
- The scale, form and massing of the building as a one-and-a-half storey, dichromatic brick Gothic Revival residential building with stone foundation;
- The hipped roof with central gable along the front elevation;
- The materials, including dichromatic brick, stone foundation, wooden bargeboard and soffits, wooden shutters (where extant along the side elevations), and stone sills, brick voussoirs and stone hood moulds;
- On the front (southwest) elevation:
  - The centrally-placed entrance within the projecting bay with transom window and sidelights beneath a Gothic-arched window below the central gable peak with wooden bargeboard;
  - The symmetrically placed paired flat-headed window openings on either side of the central entrance with stone sills, brick voussoirs and stone hood moulds;
  - Dichromatic quoining at each corner;

- On the side (southeast and northeast) elevations:
  - Symmetrically placed paired flat-headed window openings with wooden shutters (where extant).

The identified heritage attributes of the property at 20 Queen Street that contribute to its contextual value include:

- The setback, placement and orientation of the c.1855 George C. Kennedy House above the east side of Queen Street, Georgetown; and,
- The scale, form and massing of the building as a one-and-a-half storey, dichromatic brick Gothic Revival residential building with stone foundation.
