Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

Description and Reasons for Designation: 327 Townsend Ave

The Joshua Filman House is recommended for designation pursuant to Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act as a property of cultural heritage value or interest, as described in the following Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest.

Legal Description:

PLAN 873 PT PCL C

Description of Property:

The Joshua Filman House is a two-and-a-half storey Queen Anne style dwelling constructed in red brick circa 1895. It is located on the north side of Townsend Avenue between Partridge Drive and Eagle Drive.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest:

Contextual Value:

Situated on a large, fenced lot at the 'jog' in Townsend Avenue, the Joshua Filman House serves as a landmark in Aldershot and represents the last vestige of the area's former farming routes. The property retains vehicle access via Mallard Road and the actual Townsend Avenue frontage is the rear of the house. Surrounding the original farmhouse is the Birdland Survey, where streets are named after birds, thanks to the influence and affection for birds by Walter Filman. Due to the siting of the house and the rear of the building being oriented towards Townsend Avenue, views of the house are obstructed.

Historical or Associative Value:

The Joshua Filman House is associated with the Filman family, a prominent Aldershot family. The Filman family and descendents resided in the house from 1885-1956 and again from 1994-2012. James C. Filman purchased 119 acres of Lot 4, Broken Front in 1878. In 1884 it was purchased by Joshua Filman and the two-storey brick house was constructed circa 1895. Joshua granted the property to his son Walter in 1905 who created a bird sanctuary on the property which inspired the local street names in the nearby "Birdland Survey": Partridge Drive, Eagle Driver, Condor Drive and Wren Avenue, etc. During Walter's ownership, the 26-acre market garden produced potatoes, tomatoes, asparagus, cantaloupe, strawberries, plums, pears and spy apples. The Filman family was well known locally as "The Filman Brothers, Fruit Growers of Aldershot". A number of successive Filman members owned the house, including the [REDACTED] family who received a heritage award from the City of Burlington in 1995 in recognition of their work restoring and maintaining the home following a period of the house's use as apartments.

Design or Physical Value:

The Joshua Filman House is an excellent and rare example of a Queen Anne Style dwelling in Burlington. Attributes of the Queen Anne Style embodied in the home include the varied roofline, multiple gables and projecting bay windows. All elevations of the home include decorative eaves and fascia with decorative brackets, which are paired at the corners around the house.

The front elevation is the highly decorative, with a two-and-a-half storey protruding bay window and with a double gable effect. The bay includes ornate decorative eaves and fascia as well as vergeboard, all with a sun motif. The roof gables have arched window openings, although the current double hung windows are squared at the tops. The sun motif carries to the arched window openings. A front porch extends out of the protruding bay window on the front elevation and has decorative columns and spindles

The rear elevation includes a one storey addition with shed roofed dormers and shake style cladding. There is a window that has been bricked over. There are chimneys on the southwest and east elevation as well as the remnants of one on the south elevation, which runs through a decorative gable dormer. The brick on the Joshua Filman House is dichromatic (two tone) brick with voussoirs over the windows in yellow brick (the same brick on the rear side), a combination rare in Burlington.

The Joshua Filman House is said to have been constructed circa 1895 although the builder remains unknown. Despite alterations to the house including the replacement of the windows and a modern asphalt roof and skylights, the heritage character of the house has been retained.
