Last Date For Objection

October 11, 2014

1156 Dundas Street is located between McCormick Boulevard on the west and Ashland Avenue on the east in the City of London and is of cultural interest and value mainly for its historical associations and, secondarily, for its architectural interest as one of the few remaining examples of the early modern industrial style in London. Built as the McCormick's Biscuit Factory in 1913, this structure retains importance for its historic association with Thomas McCormick and family. The detailed reasons for designation of this property can be seen in or obtained from the Office of the City Clerk, Room 308, City Hall, 300 Dufferin Avenue, London, Ontario N6A 4L9 during normal office hours (8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday). Any person who objects to any intended designation must, within thirty days after the date of the first publication, serve on the City Clerk a notice of objection in writing, setting out the reason for the objection and all relevant facts. The Ontario Heritage Act provides that where a notice of objection has been served, the Council shall refer the matter to the Conservation Review Board for a hearing.

DATED at London, Ontario on September 11, 2014.
