The Parry Sound Firehall

Located at 25 Mary Street, being Plan 2, Part Market Square, Mary Street north side, north of Seguin Street, the building is a two storey, four bay rectangular block with hipped roof. The adjoining hose tower is a square three storey structure with a mansard roof and wooden railing. The street facade presents three overhead type doors for vehicles and one single entry door with four equally spaced windows above. The building is constructed of a timber frame and originally had a shingle siding. A brick veneer was added in 1950 with considerable attention given to detailing and a choice of brick consistent with other public buildings in the Town. The tower still retains its cedar shingle roof and a portion of the original belfrey. The old bell is now mounted on a base in the adjacent park.
