STATEMENT OF CULTURAL HERITAGE VALUE OR INTEREST:

18 KATHLEEN STREET, GUELPH

Constructed in 1928, 18 Kathleen Street is an excellent example of Colonial Revival and Neo-Georgian architecture. The 2.5-storey house is rectangular in form with a side-gable roof, and a front façade of three bays with a centre door and symmetrically placed windows. At both ends of the front façade an original rainwater head continues to proclaim the house construction date of 1928. The front entrance with a broken pediment, flanking columns and a semi-circular transom fanlight clearly identifies the Neo-Georgian architectural style. A secondary entrance is provided on the south wall through a small open porch with treillage.

18 Kathleen Street has a significant historical association with its original owner William Alexander Cowan, a well-known architect and builder in the Guelph area during the first half of the 20th century. William A. Cowan designed and built many houses in Guelph, but 18 Kathleen Street was built for himself and his family. William A. Cowan was quite involved in civic affairs and for many years was a member of City Council.

The subject property and 19 Lyon Avenue were connected to a builder's yard established in the early 20th century by the family contracting business of Walter S. Cowan and subsequently William A. Cowan. William A. Cowan had a vision to create a shared garden area for the houses he had built on Lyon Avenue, London Road, and Kathleen Street.
