Short Statement of Reasons for Designation

The Olympia Candy Store is recommended for designation for architectural and historical reasons. It is a typical example of the stores constructed along Lang Street following the 1909 fire, and is thus an integral part of the Lang Street cross section of Cobalt's first decade.

Reasons for Designation

The Olympia Candy Store is recommended for designation for architectural and historical reasons. Built in 1910 by Peter Panos, confectioner, it is a typical example of the stores built along Lang Street following the 1909 fire, with its brick construction and elaborate pressed metal cornice, brackets, and finials. It is thus an integral part of the Lang Street cross section of Cobalt's first decade.
