NOTICE OF HERITAGE DESIGNATION

On July 9, 2018, Oakville Town Council resolved to pass By-law 2018-109 to designate 2478 Old Bronte Road under Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. O.18, as amended, as a property of cultural heritage value and interest:

2478 Old Bronte Road
Unit 31, Level 1, Halton Standard Condominium Plan No. 680, Oakville

Description of Property

This one and half storey building is located on the west side of Old Bronte Road in the historic village of Palermo. Originally used as a residence for a small farm, the building has been relocated slightly to the southeast of its original location as part of the surrounding development. This brick-clad building has a steeply pitched gable roof and wraparound verandah.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

Design/Physical Value

The historic building has cultural heritage value as a representative example of an early 20th century vernacular residence with Craftsman-inspired details. The building is a red brick-clad, 1-1/2 storey structure with a steeply pitched gable roof with front facing wall gable and steeply pitched gabled dormers. A beveled course of brick runs 4 levels of brick above the foundation. The overall design of the house is unique within the Palermo area.

Historic/Associative Value

The historic building has cultural heritage value in its association with the development of Palermo Village. Constructed during the heyday of Palermo Village, which is the earliest settlement in present day Oakville, the residence is representative of the prosperity of the settlement at that time. The historic building formed part of a small semi-rural farm property that formerly included a barn, blacksmith shop and apple orchard. The historic building has been associated with historically well-known Palermo families, including the Lee family, the Dickenson family and the Bartman family.

Contextual Value

The historic building has cultural heritage value as one of the last remaining historic residences of Palermo Village. While the village has changed dramatically, the remaining elements of Palermo are important in understanding the history of the Town of Oakville. The historic building maintains and supports the history of Old Bronte Road and is one of only three heritage homes remaining on the west side of Old Bronte Road. Its continued presence on the streetscape is important in retaining the few remaining heritage resources of the village.
