SCHEDULE "A"

REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

445 Nelson Avenue

Built in 1886 for George Chisholm, this was for many years a summer house, part of the early "summer resort" aspect of old Burlington. It was owned by John Waldie and his family in the 1890's, and then was a summer cottage for the John McCoy family until 1903. It was afterwards owned by Harry Freeman, and from 1917 to 1946 was the home of George Evans and his wife when they had retired from farming. The one-and-a-half storey end-gabled structure is built in a traditional vernacular style that is characteristic of an earlier period: it has a three-bay front elevation and a centre gable above an arched window. The walls are parged with lines imitating freestone masonry. The property makes a very strong contribution to the heritage streetscape of Nelson Avenue.
