STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (REASONS FOR DESIGNATION)

120 Sherbourne Street (entrance address at 52 Britain Street) and 122 Sherbourne Street

The property at 120-122 Sherbourne Street (entrance address at 52 Britain Street) is worthy of designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act for its cultural heritage value, and meets Ontario Regulation 9/06, the provincial criteria prescribed for municipal designation under the categories of design and physical, historical and associative, and contextual value.

Description

Located at the northwest corner of Sherbourne and Britain streets, the property at 120-122 Sherbourne Street comprises a Main Street Commercial Row building with residential above. The building was identified through the King-Parliament Secondary Plan Review (2019), is included in the King-Parliament Historic Context Statement and listed on the City's Heritage Register in 2020.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value

Physical and Design Value

Built in 1892, the property at 120-122 Sherbourne Street has design and physical value as a fine representative example of a late-19th century, Victorian-era main street commercial and residential row. Clad in red brick on its street-fronting Sherbourne and Britain Street elevations, the corner building blends elements of the Romanesque and Classical Revival styles as expressed through the varied architectural elements, including the articulated brickwork, arched window openings and entrance, and rusticated stone foundation. The Sherbourne Street elevation is organized into three bays separated by brick pilasters, with architectural details including flat-headed and rounded-arch window openings, stone sills, corbelled brickwork and a recessed entrance beyond a grand, three-centred arch entryway.

Historical and Associative Value

The corner Main Street Commercial Row type building at 120-122 Sherbourne Street is valued for its association with the late-19th century community which developed around this section of Queen Street as an urban townscape combining industrial, commercial and residential functions, lining one of the city's major cross-routes. It is valued for its historic association with Queen Street, the original boundary between the ten-block Town of York established in 1793 and the Park Lots estates to the north, and for its association with the history and development of the King-Parliament neighbourhood in the late 19th century.

Contextual Value

Contextually, this three-storey Victorian-era brick commercial row maintains the scale, form and massing, materiality and patterns of use of this section of Queen Street East, particularly between Mutual Street and Seaton Street. Located within the north edge of the King-Parliament Secondary Plan Area which contains the historic 1793 Town of York, it supports the character of the area as it represents the late-nineteenth-century development of the neighbourhood with commercial/residential and industrial buildings and consistent urban street walls.

Situated at the north-west corner of Sherbourne and Britain Streets, just south of Queen Street (originally known as Lot Street) which separated the Town to the south from Park Lot estates to the north, the row is physically, visually and historically linked to its surroundings alongside the neighbouring heritage properties at the Thomas J. Wilkie Block (167-185 Queen Street East, 1886-1887), the Carlyle Block (234-242 Queen Street East, 1892-1893) and the adjacent corner properties identified in the King-Parliament Secondary Plan Review at 112-118 Sherbourne Street (1903-1910).
