STATEMENT OF CULTURAL HERITAGE VALUE OR INTEREST

Description of Property

The property at 407 Lakeshore Road East is located on the north side of Lakeshore Road East, between Douglas and Watson Avenues in the Brantwood neighbourhood. The property contains a 1908 two-and-a-half-storey brick house known as the Warcup House.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

Design and Physical Value

The Warcup House has design and physical value as a representative example of Edwardian Classicism architecture with Queen Anne design features. The house was built in 1908 with Edwardian elements such as square massing, hipped roof, red brick cladding and rectangular front porch. Queen Anne features include: the turret-style bay window; the use of multiple cladding materials including brick and wooden fish scale shingles; various window shapes and sizes including an oriel window, Palladian window, and leaded windows; the bell-cast shape of the dormers with decorative semi-circular cutouts; the wooden detailing on the oriel window soffit and base and its wooden brackets; and the fenestration on all elevations.

Historical and Associative Value

The Warcup House has cultural heritage value for its direct associations with the theme of 20th century residential development in Oakville, specifically of the local residential area known as 'Brantwood'. This development was defined by large lots with purposefully designed homes built by well-to-do families. The house is also associated with Isaac and Charlotte Warcup, prominent local business owners in Oakville who had the house constructed. The Warcup family owned the local grist mill for 20 years. The mill was in production by 1833 and was a large reason for the Town's growth, even during Warcup's ownership in the late 1800s. Another owner of note was Edward Alfred Orr, who was a well-known dairy farmer and politician in Clarkson before retiring to the subject property.

Contextual Value

The Warcup House has contextual value because it defines, supports and maintains the character of the Brantwood neighborhood. It is physically, functionally, visually, and historically linked to the surrounding residential neighbourhood and places the Brantwood area's origins in a specific timeframe. The house was one of the earliest built in the survey and had a place of prominence on the corner. As an anchor point in the Brantwood neighbourhood, this house helps to define the original aesthetic of Brantwood and continues to support and maintain the character of the neighbourhood.

Description of Heritage Attributes

Key heritage attributes of the property at 407 Lakeshore Road East that exemplify its cultural heritage value as an Edwardian house with Queen Anne features, as they relate to the historic two-and-a-half-storey house and its one-storey front porch, include:

- The footprint and form of the building with hipped roof including upper bay with turret roof on south elevation;
- Red brick cladding in a running bond pattern, including brick voussoirs over windows and doors;
