Whereas:

Subsection 29(1) of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter 0.18 (the "Ontario Heritage Act") authorizes the council of a municipality to enact by-laws to designate property within the municipality, including buildings and structures on the property, to be of cultural heritage value or interest;

The property was listed on the register established pursuant to Section 27 of the Ontario Heritage Act in 2016;

On March 20, 2024, Council of the City of Kingston ("Council") consulted with its municipal heritage committee regarding the designation of the property municipally known as the Crowley House at 9 and 11 Colborne Street (the "property") in accordance with subsection 29(2) of the Ontario Heritage Act;

On April 2, 2024 Council caused notice of its intention to designate the property to be given to the owner of the property and to the Ontario Heritage Trust (the "Trust"), and on April 9, 2024 notice of the intent to designate the property was published in The Kingston Whig-Standard, a newspaper having general circulation in the City of Kingston; and

No notice of objection to the proposed designation was served on the municipal Clerk (the "Clerk") of the Corporation of the City of Kingston (the "City") within the time prescribed by subsection 29(5) of the Ontario Heritage Act.

Introduction and Description of Property

The subject properties at 9 and 11 Colborne Street are located on the north side of Colborne Street, just west of Sydenham Street, in the City of Kingston. Spanning two separate properties with a combined area of approximately 300 square metres, this two-storey red-brick double house was constructed between 1875 and 1892, likely as a rental property.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value/Statement of Significance

The property has design value or physical value because it is a rare, unique, representative or early example of a style, type, expression, material or construction method.

9 and 11 Colborne Street is a representative example of a Georgian-style duplex from the late 19th century. Typical of this architectural style is the symmetrical façade, with side gable roof and twin chimneys. This building features a four-bay façade (two for each unit) with offset front doors. As is common with Georgian buildings, there are limited decorative architectural features. Notable are the window and door openings, which exhibit segmental arches with brick voussoirs. The fenestration on the first and second stories have wood surrounds, stone sills, and what appear to be period two-over-two sash windows. The side gable roof with parapet walls and twin brick chimneys add to the symmetry of the building, reflecting its Georgian influence.

The property has contextual value because it is important in defining, maintaining or supporting the character of an area.

The property has contextual value because it is physically, functionally, visually or historically linked to its surroundings.

The property located at 9 and 11 Colborne Street is significant in defining the character of the streetscape along the north side of Colborne Street, between Sydenham and Clergy streets. While the south side of the street demonstrates a continual pattern of highly altered and replaced residential buildings, the north side of Colborne Street displays an almost continuous row of red-brick, 19th century duplexes and row houses.

With its shallow setback, symmetrical fenestration pattern, red-brick construction, and location close to the lot lines, 9 and 11 Colborne Street shares a visual and historical relationship with its surroundings, particularly the brick houses at 2-4, 13-17, 25, and 30 Colborne Street, as well as the stone buildings at 7 and 22 Colborne Street. As part of this group of buildings, the subject duplex helps maintain the historic and eclectic character of this portion of Colborne Street.
