Description and Reasons for Designation

Hedgewood

Civic Address: 169 Union Street
Legal Description: PLAN A12 LOT 922 923 PT 921; City of Kingston, County of Frontenac
Property Roll Number: 1011 010 070 04200 0000

Introduction and Description of Property

Hedgewood, located at 169 Union Street, is on the north-west corner of Union and Albert Streets in the University District of Kingston. The property includes a two-and-a-half storey brick house constructed for W. B. Anglin in 1878.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value/Statement of Significance

Physical/Design Value

Hedgewood has design value as a representative example of Second Empire style dwellings. Typical of this architectural style is the three-bay front façade, framed by plain corner pilasters, under a mansard roof with dormers. The entrance is recessed between one-storey bays, each with three windows, with flat roofs which extend to cover the projected entrance porch. The walls are of brick construction, now painted, resting on a limestone foundation with margined rock-faced stonework. On the second storey, following the lines of the entrance porch, is a three-window sun porch with a flat roof that is flanked by single windows. There are dormers in each elevation emerging from the mansard roof. Additional representative details of this style include the brackets under the cornice and square columns resting on stone foundations on the front and side porches.

Historical/Associative Value

The property has associative value through its connection with William Bartram Anglin who had the house built in 1878 and who named it "Hedgewood". Anglin was a local businessman who, with his brother Samuel, ran a successful sawmill and lumber yard at the foot of Wellington Street, now named "Anglin Bay" in his family's honour. William and his wife Fanny (nee Baker) lived in Hedgewood for many years and raise five children there.

During the 20th century, the house was owned by Queen's University, first as a School of Public Administration, then as a children's day care center. It was sold in 2015 and converted to a dental practice (i.e. Hedgewood House Dental).

Contextual Value

With its prominent location, size, large yard, mature landscaping and grand setback, Hedgewood has contextual value as it contributes to maintaining the historic character of the north side of Union Street, once dominated by large estate homes (e.g. 163 Union Street, Sunnyside, Hillcroft and Roselawn).

Cultural Heritage Attributes

Key exterior elements that contribute to the property's cultural heritage value include:

- The two-and-a-half storey brick dwelling with dressed limestone foundation;
- Its mansard roof with gable dormers on each elevation, two brick chimneys, and projecting chimney breasts, on east and west elevations;
- Its cornice with decorative frieze and brackets, and projecting second-floor sun porch on the front façade;
- The three-bay front façade with arched window and door openings;
- Front porch, with central entrance flanked by bay windows and square columns resting on limestone pillars;
- Enclosed east side verandah with decorative wooden columns on limestone pillars;
- Rear kitchen wing with veranda;
- The dwelling's deep setback from Union Street; and
- Its visibility and legibility from both Union and Albert Streets.
