APPENDIX A

Former Essex United Church Manse

Municipal Address

98 Talbot Street South, Essex Centre

Legal Description

PLAN 236 LOT 5

General Description of Property

98 Talbot Street South is located on the western side of Talbot Street within Essex Centre. It is comprised of the former Essex United Church manse: a red brick house that was built in 1886 in the Folk Victorian architectural style.

Description of Property that has Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The area of the property that demonstrates cultural heritage value or interest is the area that encompasses the entirety of the Essex United Church Manse.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

Design/Physical Value

The property has design value or physical value because it is a rare, unique, representative or early example of a style, type, expression, material or construction method.

98 Talbot Street South retains significant design or physical value because it is a representative example of a home built in the Folk Victorian architectural style and uses materials sourced from local brick yards. The house was built in 1886 and was conveyed to the Grace Methodist Church Congregation, now known as the Essex United Church Congregation, on September 27, 1886.

The Folk Victorian architectural style is characterized by its mass, form, and shape of the house, the peaked roof line, and the shape of the windows. These features can be seen throughout the building at 98 Talbot Street South.

Historical/Associative Value

The property has historical value or associative value because it has direct associations with a theme, event, belief, person, activity, organization or institution that is significant to a community.

98 Talbot Street South retains significant historical or associative value because it is directly associated with the Grace Methodist Church, now known as the Essex United Church, and was important to the development of Essex Centre's religious community.

98 Talbot Street South served as the church's manse from 1886 until it was sold to Sylvester Damn in 1943 and housed several ministers, including Rev. James Whiting, Rev. W. S. Pascoe, and Rev. Gorman Glifford. It served as both the home of the church's minister and a community hub for members of the church.

The Essex United Church is connected to one of the earliest Methodist congregations to have formed in Essex Centre and the congregation dates back to the 1870s. The congregation of the church grew rapidly, due to the amalgamation of the community's two Methodist churches and the expansion of the community overall. The manse allowed the minister to live close to the church and served as a place for members of the church to form a community.

Contextual Value

The property has contextual value because it is important in defining, maintaining, or supporting the character of an area.

98 Talbot Street South retains significant contextual value because it is important in defining, maintaining, and supporting the character of Talbot Street South. Through its architectural style, and the use of red brick throughout the building, it helps define and maintain the character of the neighborhood as it is consistent with buildings at 54 Talbot Street South, the Essex United Church (49 Talbot Street South), 94 Talbot Street South, and 102 Talbot Street South.
