REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The subject property is located along the north side of Bower Street in the community of Acton in the Town of Halton Hills. The existing residential building on the subject property is a two-and-a-half storey frame building with brick veneer, featuring a hipped roof with bracketed eaves and stone foundation.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property at 29 Bower Street has physical and design value as a representative example of an Edwardian residential building with Arts and Crafts influences within the community of Acton in the Town of Halton Hills. The form, massing, rooflines, and symmetrical, balanced façade, with a generous front porch, smooth surfaces, multiple window openings, and simplified dormers are all consistent with the Edwardian residential style. The existing building also features detailing characteristic of the Arts and Crafts style, with several windows featuring multi-divided lites and leaded glass, as well as the bracketed eaves and more elaborate covered porch featuring Corinthian columns. The Edwardian home, while overall restrained in its form and presenting a balanced façade, features significant detailing, artisanship and craftsmanship that make this home stand out along the streetscape.

The property at 29 Bower Street has historical and associative value due to its associations with the Henderson family, and the United Church of Acton with its origins in the Methodist congregation in Acton established by Reverends Ezra and Zenas Adams. MP David Henderson created this property and two other lots from land that was originally part of the Adams’ farm property. The existing home was built for Henderson’s son, Charles C. Henderson, an important local merchant and businessman within the community. The property was later used as the parsonage for the Acton United Church between 1928 and 1973 and was a significant community hub for social events and meetings over these years. The parsonage was the third for the Acton United Church, which had its roots in the Methodist congregation established in the early 19th century in Acton by Reverends Ezra and Zenas Adams. The property is also associated with prominent local builder J.B. Mackenzie who supplied much of the mill work for the home.

The property at 29 Bower Street has significant contextual value as an early-twentieth-century Edwardian residential building with Arts and Crafts influences at the corner of Bower Street and Willow Street North in the community of Acton. Together with the neighbouring properties along Willow Street North and Bower Street, the existing building helps to define and maintain the late-nineteenth century and early-twentieth century development of this residential neighbourhood on the periphery of Acton’s historic downtown. The property and existing residence are physically, functionally, visually, and historically linked to its surroundings in the community and has maintained its significant presence along the streetscape as captured in historical photography. The property is similar in scale and materials to the neighbouring properties and has not been identified as a landmark in the area.
