SCHEDULE "B" TO BY-LAW NO. 2024-0068

REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The subject property is located along the south side of Queen Street in the community of Georgetown, within the neighbourhood historically associated with the Grand Trunk Railway line. The existing house at 24 Queen Street is set back from the right of way on a rise above Queen Street with a retaining wall and is accessed from Queen Street.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property at 24 Queen Street known as ILLAHEE is, together with its twin UENI, a unique expression of the Queen Anne Revival style in a stone residential building in the community of Georgetown. ILLAHEE features rusticated stone exteriors and detailing, including sills, lintels, and the stone panels naming each property on the front elevations; asymmetrical facades; multi-pitched roofs with irregular rooflines; front-facing gables and the appearance of towers; projecting two-storey bays; and a variety of window shapes and sizes. This residence represents a high degree of craftsmanship and merit in its detailing, carved stone panels with names, and decorative wooden projecting bays on the northeast elevation.

ILLAHEE has historical and associative value due to its association with Edward McCannah, Station Agent for the Grand Trunk Railway. McCannah constructed several houses along Queen Street, including the residences at 26 Queen Street, 20 Queen Street, and his personal residence Grey Vernon at 5 Albert Street. The property is also associated with John McDonald, who purchased the property from McCannah in 1909 and operated his coal business down the street for many years. ILLAHEE is also associated with the residential development around the Grand Trunk Railway line at the end of the nineteenth century and early twentieth century.

ILLAHEE has contextual value as one of several historic properties along Queen Street in Georgetown. The house is physically and historically linked to several of the existing residences along the street, many of which were constructed by Edward McCannah. ILLAHEE, together with its twin next door UENI, is significant in defining and maintaining the character of the area.
