REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The subject property is located at 75 Mill Street, Georgetown. The property is located along the southeast side of Mill Street and to the southwest of Park Avenue. The triangular shaped lot is located just northeast of Main Street South within Downtown Georgetown. The existing property features a paved parking lot and drive along Mill Street with a one-and-a-half storey bungalow within the property. Mature trees extend along the northeast/east property line along Park Avenue and to the rear along the southeast lot line.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property at 75 Mill Street has physical and design value as an excellent example of a Craftsman Bungalow within the community of Georgetown. The Birches, despite minor alterations to the front porch columns, has retained significant architectural details characteristic of the style, including its one-and-a-half storey form, broad and low-pitched roof, large porch with overhang, exterior space around the building, a variety of building materials including brick, stone, and wood, grouped window openings that feature multi-paned windows, and large chimneys. Built by J.B. Mackenzie for his family, The Birches is an excellent example of Mackenzie’s skill and craftsmanship as reflected by a number of his remaining buildings within the Town of Halton Hills, including the Old Post Office across the street.

The property at 75 Mill Street has historical and associative value due to its association with prominent contractor and resident of Halton Hills, J.B Mackenzie. In addition to running two mills in Georgetown and Acton, he ran a contracting business under the name J.B Mackenzie & Son and constructed numerous buildings in Town. Mackenzie’s family also joined his business, including daughter Jean who was his bookkeeper for many years, and Samuel who operated the store and office for many years, son Ken, who managed the Acton Branch between 1945 and 1950, and daughter Marjory who helped at home. Notable contracting jobs include the Post Office and Customs House, The Gregory Theatre and Roxy Theatre, Coated Paper Mill, and the remodeled Willoughby Stables, now the Georgetown Royal Canadian Legion. He was also an active member of the community, he served on Georgetown Council and was a former Mayor, and was a member to many clubs, boards and associations. J.B Mackenzie's wife, Eliza Mackenzie (nee McQueen) owned The Birches upon his death in 1947. She taught classes in Acton.

The property at 75 Mill Street has contextual value due to its location in Downtown Georgetown on Mill Street. It is the only residential home of its size located in the downtown and contributes to the streetscape. It is also situated adjacent to two notable projects acquired by J.B Mackenzie & Son, such as the Post Office and Customs House and the Roxy Theatre in Georgetown.
