REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The subject property is located at 15 Mountain Street along the northwest side of Mountain Street in Glen Williams, Halton Hills and contains a two-storey brick residential building and a one-storey detached garage. The property is an irregularly-shaped parcel that fronts Mountain Street and overlooks the Credit River in the rear. The dwelling is accessed via a driveway off Mountain Street. The property is legally known as LT 39, RCP 1556; HALTON HILLS.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The Frances Williams House within the property at 15 Mountain Street in Glen Williams is a representative example of mid-19th century Georgian residential architecture. Key features characteristic of this style that are extant include the symmetrical front elevation, gable roof, graduated fenestration, Classical detailing, and dual chimneys at either end of the roof. The structure's brick construction is laid in a common bond pattern, and it features a raised stone foundation typical of residences in this style. Despite modifications over time, the building retains the defining elements of the Georgian style, illustrating the architectural preferences of the pre-Confederation era in Ontario.

The late-19th century addition to the rear is legible from the original Georgian building yet is compatible in terms of materials, detailing, and form. The addition, with its board and batten upper floor and stucco-covered ground-floor porch, reflects the architectural evolution of the property while maintaining visual continuity with the original structure.

The property at 15 Mountain Street in Glen Williams is directly associated with the early European settlement of the area, and is associated in particular with the Williams family, a prominent pioneering family in the development of Glen Williams. Acquired by Benajah Williams in 1825, the property was part of the land where he established the village of Williamsburg (later Glen Williams) and developed vital milling industries that contributed to the community's growth. The existing Georgian home was constructed in 1854 by Benajah's son, Charles Williams, as a residence for Frances Huestis Williams, the widow of Jacob Williams.

The property has also been associated with the Reid family, including Dugald Reid, a prominent Georgetown merchant, and his distant cousin William Henry Reid, a local stone mason. The Thompson family, who operated the Thompson & Wilson Beverage Company from the property, further contributed to the property's significance with its commercial use. These associations with key figures and families in the development of Glen Williams emphasize the property's significance to the community.

The Frances Williams House at 15 Mountain Street is physically, functionally, visually and historically linked to its surroundings in its original location on Mountain Street in the community of Glen Williams. The existing building is important in defining and maintaining the character of the area through its connection to other early Georgian residential dwellings in Glen Williams and to the Williams family, including the Williams-Holt House, Alexander House, original Glen Williams Schoolhouse, and the Williams House. The existing home is relative to the scale and setback of surrounding homes and has not been identified as a landmark.
