Introduction and Description of Property

The subject property, located at 2785 Lee Road, is situated on the south side of the road near the terminus of Babcock Road, in the former Township of Kingston, now City of Kingston. The 40.2-hectare rural property contains a one-and-a-half storey limestone farmhouse with various additions, built around 1880, possibly for farmer James F. Knapp who owned the property from 1876 into the early 20th century. A number of 20th century detached agricultural buildings are also present on the property.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value/Statement of Significance

The property has design value or physical value because it is a rare, unique, representative or early example of a style, type, expression, material or construction method.

2785 Lee Road is a rare example of a late-19th century one-and-a-half storey, Ontario vernacular limestone farmhouse with its main entrance located on the gable end. This placement of the entryway is atypical as Ontario vernacular farmhouses are overwhelmingly designed with a symmetrical facade with central entrance flanked by large rectangular window openings. This feature does not appear to be an alteration to a symmetrical design as there is no evidence of a former door located on the east or west elevations. This unique design makes this building a rare example of this style of Ontario vernacular house in the rural area of Kingston.

The current U-shaped floor plan is due to various additions around the building. The one-and-a-half-storey western wing and single-storey rear additions are constructed in a different manner from the main house (and possibly older). The western wing includes limestone laid in even courses, but in alternating wide and narrow courses of contrasting-coloured stones. The differing construction may indicate the wing is an earlier construction. Its small and non-symmetrical window opening may also point to an earlier construction date. There is a rear one storey wing off the western wing, which has a large entranceway on the west elevation of uncoursed limestone construction.

Common for this Georgian-influenced Ontario vernacular style of house is the medium-pitched gable roof and regular arrangement of rectangular window openings found throughout the building. Substantial stone chimneys are located at the northern gable end of the main house and the western gable end of the western wing. A small chimney is located centrally on the ridge of the main house and a fourth is located on the rear tail addition.

The property has design value or physical value because it displays a high degree of craftsmanship or artistic merit.

The high degree of craftsmanship of 2758 Lee Road is evident in the exceptional quality of the masonry on the main house, which is squared, dressed and laid in even courses of uniform stone that continue up the large chimney above the front wall. This craftsmanship is also evident in the tall radiating stone voussoirs that top all the doors and window openings of the main house, as well as the stone sills. The oversized entrance is emphasized by a deeply recessed paneled surround with transom window above and flanking sidelights.

The property has contextual value because it is important in defining, maintaining or supporting the character of an area.

2785 Lee Road has contextual value as its simple vernacular design, integrity, limestone construction, unpaved circulation routes, barn-board agricultural buildings and the proximity of these features to the road, supports and maintains the scenic and historic rural character of the road.
