Introduction and Description of Property

The Hugh Rankin Junior House, located at 4097 Bath Road, is situated on the north side of the road, in the former Township of Kingston, now part of the City of Kingston. The property contains a two-storey 'L'-shaped limestone farmhouse constructed circa 1860.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value/Statement of Significance

Physical/Design Value

The Hugh Rankin Junior House is an early example of a two-storey limestone farmhouse. Typical of this style is the low-pitched cross-gable roof and the porch located in the corner of the 'L'-shape. The entranceway features sidelights, a transom and radiating limestone voussoirs. The porch is decorated with columns and bargeboard. Sash windows, limestone sills, radiating limestone voussoirs, and shutters characterize the second storey. The house may have been built in two stages.

Historical/Associative Value

The Hugh Rankin Junior House is associated with three owners: Hiram McGuin, Hugh Rankin Senior, and Hugh Rankin Junior, and one family: the McGuins/Rankins. The property was inherited or passed down from Hiram McGuin to his brother-in-law Hugh Rankin (Senior). Hugh Rankin Senior was an Irishman who worked at the neighbouring McGuin mill. In 1828 the McGuins built a grist mill on Collins Creek at the edge of Collins Bay which was one of the first commercial mills to be set up in the area; a fulling and carding mill were added after; unfortunately in 1855 it was destroyed in a fire, but was rebuilt the following year. In the early 1850s Hugh Rankin Senior married McGuin daughter, and eventually took over the operation of the mill. In 1866, the milling operation was valued at between $50,000 and $100,000 by the Mercantile Agency Reference book. It was later called "McGuin & Rankin". Hugh Rankin Senior died on September 22, 1880. The mill continued in the McGuin Rankin name into the 20th century as "A. McGuin Rankin" operated by Anthony McGuin Rankin, grandson of the mill's founder. At this time the mill is noted making "High Grade Roller Flour" as well as "white lily pastry, kiln dried corn meal, gold dust, corn flour and rye flour". Hugh Rankin Junior, son of Hugh Rankin, inherited the house. He was a long time officer with the County of Frontenac Agricultural Society. He was the Kingston Township Vice-President of the Frontenac County Liberal Conservative Association in 1895. Rankin Junior was also the County Warden in 1890.

Contextual Value

The Hugh Rankin Junior House's distinctive architecture makes it a landmark along Bath Road and Collins Bay. Its association with an important family that aided in shaping the village of Collins Bay, through their local mills, forms the visual and contextual understanding of the historic village and road.
