Schedule "B"

forming part of By-law Number 5432-78

The Armoury completed in 1906 as the home of the Oxford Rifles, which became a City Regiment in December 1906 is typical of many Ontario Armouries built at the turn of the Century.

The Order-in-Council to purchase Lots 9 & 10 on the East side of Graham Street for the site of a new Armoury was issued on July 5, 1904, and an amendment to include part of Lot 10 on the West side of Riddle Street as part of the purchase was issued August 10, 1904.

The tender of Messrs. Nagel and Mills of Ingersoll for its construction was accepted on November 23, 1904. The design was by the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Significance - The building with its crenellated towers, built strictly for ornamentation, its expressive limestone dressed brick facades and its two massive limestone columns mounted by large round balls, faces majestically onto the Courthouse Square. It forms an integral part of the streetscape and is a fine example of architecture parlante, that is architecture that reveals its function through its exterior form. It serves to remind the citizens of Woodstock of the important role of the Militia in the lives of the people at that time.
