BY-LAW NUMBER (1983)-_____

STATEMENTS OF REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

16 Oxford Street

This two storey house was built of cream-coloured brick on a stone foundation about 1871. Originally it faced Nelson Crescent but was relocated circa 1912. Its facade retains considerable character with its twin bow windows and enclosed entry vestibule beneath the wide verandah. For ninety years it was the home of the family of George Williams, prominent Wyndham Street merchant. The house forms a significant visual anchor for the residential streetscape to the west.

The designation covers the Oxford Street facade and the rest of the original brick structure, while excluding rear additions of later date.

88 London Road West

This house was built in 1894-95 for G.B. Ryan, prosperous Wyndham Street clothing merchant. Designed in the Baronial phase of the Queen Anne Style, "Parkview" was constructed with skilled craftsmanship and ornate detailing. It is one of Guelph's most palatial homes and is among the most outstanding examples of this late Victorian style in Ontario. Still structurally sound, it was built of pressed red brick on a red sandstone foundation with masonry details of sandstone and roof of grey slate. Exterior features include the circular three-storey tower, with conical roof, and decorative gables and porches. The interior is still handsome with fine decorative plaster moldings, leaded windows and carefully-crafted oak woodwork. The stair hall, almost thirty feet high, remains an impressive feature, as well as seven fireplaces with original tile and brass ornamentation.

The designation covers the total exterior (masonry, woodwork, and slate roof) and the interior features outlined above.
