SCHEDULE 'B'

Reasons for the designation of the Dead House in St. Michael's Cemetery at the rear of No. 1403A Yonge Street.

The Dead House is designated as being of architectural value, not only because it is an octagonal building and a good example of the revived Gothic style, but also because it is the work of an important Toronto architect of the mid-nineteenth century, and as being of historic interest because the building has contextual and historical importance as a local point of Toronto's oldest Roman Catholic cemetery.
