REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

96 James Street South, Hamilton, OntarioContext

The James Street Baptist Church, constructed in 1878-1882, is located in the Central Area of Hamilton at the south-west corner of James and Jackson Streets. Situated to the south of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, the Baptist Church has long been recognized as an important downtown landmark in its own right as well as a major component in the James-Main historic streetscape which includes St. Paul's, the former Bank of Montreal, the Sun Life and Pigott buildings, all of which are designated under the Ontario Heritage Act.

Architectural Significance

The church is designed in the Gothic Revival Style; its massive stone construction and complex, monumental composition are indicative of a later, High Victorian phase of the style.

Unique among Hamilton churches, the James Street church is particularly distinguished for its use of rock-faced masonry walls, dominant corner tower and heavily buttressed facades. At ground level, the building is characterized by the solidity of its raised stone basement penetrated only by the central and tower entrances and by the small openings of lancet windows and circular quatrefoil decorations (the basement windows were a later addition).

In contrast, on the second storey where the tall sanctuary is located, the pointed-arch, traceried windows are the dominant features. Of special interest is the elaborate rose window at the west end of the nave and the immense, six-partite, Decorated Gothic window at the front facade.

The exterior displays a vigourously articulated composition of projecting transepts, aisles, narthex, pinnacles, buttresses and corner tower. Likewise, the surfaces continue the richly modelled effect in the rock-faced texture of the masonry, the contrasting cut-stone decoration, ornamental mouldings and stepped profile of the buttresses.

Architect of the church, Joseph Connolly, is well known as the designer of a number of Roman Catholic churches in Ontario, including St. Patrick's in Hamilton (1877); Church of Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception in Guelph (designed 1863; built 1876-1926); St. Mary's and St. Paul's (1887-89) in Toronto; and St. Peter's Cathedral Basilica (1885) in London, Ontario. James Street Baptist Church is considered to be Connolly's only protestant church design in Ontario.

Historical Significance

The James Street Church is the oldest, surviving Baptist church in Hamilton. Their first church had been erected on Park Street North in 1846 and enlarged in 1862, but the James Street structure marks the construction of the Baptist's first major, monumental church building in the City.

During its 107 year history, the James Street Baptists have founded as many as 15 missions, a number of which have developed into permanent churches including Wentworth, Stanley Avenue, Trinity, King St., Bethel, MacNeill Memorial, and Westmount.

In 1930, when McMaster, originally a Baptist university, relocated to Hamilton from Toronto, the James Street Baptist Church donated funds to the move and welcomed the faculty into their membership.

Designated Features

Important to the preservation of the James Street Baptist Church are the original features of the exterior facades, including the slate roof, masonry walls and detailing, all windows including the stained glass, and the door openings, but excluding the recent alterations of new doors and the new glazing of the front entrance.
