THE WOODBRIDGE MACKENZIE SITE (AkGv-2)

Part Lot 7, Concession 7, Town of Vaughan

Report prepared by Meryl Oliver, Clerk/Researcher March, 1983

The Woodbridge Mackenzie Site (AkGv-2) PROPERTY:

LOCATION:

Part of Lot 7, Concession 7 (Western half of Block 123, Plan 19T-81013) Town of Vaughan Regional Municipality of York

OCCUPATION DATE: circa 1520

Southern Division of the Huron Indians OCCUPANTS:

REASONS FOR DESIGNATION:

The Woodbridge Mackenzie Site (AkGv-2) is recommended for designation for historical reasons. The 1.283 hectare designation for historical reasons. The 1.283 hectare remnant of the northeastern extremity of the original site contains the remains of at least eight longhouses and is surrounded by a multiple rowed palisade. Beyond the palisade, extending to the southeast and east as well as to the north, are extensive midden deposits.

There are very few large cosmopolitan Iroquoian villages of this period still surviving in the Province; therefore, this site is unique.

The Woodbridge Mackenzie Site (AkGv-2) is the location of a village of the Late Ontario Iroquois Indians, Southern Division, ancestors of the Hurons. The date of the single occupation of the village has been set at circa A.D.1520, based upon the pipe styles, ceramic seriation as well as the presence of European trade material. At this time the people of Southern Ontario had become full-time farmers and had established more permanent settlements.

This particular village is one of a series of sites which mark a migration northward along the Humber River into historic Huronia. The location of the village, on a bluff above the flood plain at the intersection of the East and West Branches of the Humber River, was clearly strategic. In historic times, this area was part of the famous "Toronto Carrying Place", the portage trail between Lakes Ontario and Simcoe used by French and English traders.

Excavations have been conducted on various portions of the site; by the University of Toronto in 1947 and 1949, by the Ontario Archaeological Society in 1951, by the University in 1974, 1975 and 1977 and most recently by the Ontario Archaeological Society in 1982. A detailed history of the work on the site and an analysis of the work conducted in 1982, funded by the Town of Vaughan, can be found in a report by R. Robin Dods "The Woodbridge Mackenzie Project" on file at the Town.

The village covered approximately 3.642 hectares (9 acres) of Lot 7, Concession 7 and contained at least seventeen multi-family longhouses, ranging in size from 9.14 to 53 metres long and 7 to 8.5 metres wide. It was surrounded by protective palisade. In the mid to late 1950s the western two-thirds of the site was destroyed by the Seneca Heights housing development.

The area recommended for designation is the northeastern portion of the original village, identified as Section "A" on Map #3. It contains at least eight partially excavated longhouses surrounded on three sides by a multiple rowed palisade. Extensive midden (garbage) deposits lie beyond the palisade extending into the swamp area at the south east and east as well as along the northern bluff of the village extending circa 25 metres down the slope and 1.5 metres in depth at the deepest.

Burials were excavated in 1982 from the cemetery to the north east of the site following the procedures of the Ministry of Culture and Citizenship under the direction of Roberta O'Brien. This area should now be clear of human remains.

Other sites contemporary with Woodbridge Mackenzie are Boyd (AkGv-3), Seed/Barker (AkGv-1) and the Kleinburg Ossuary (AlGv-1) which is completely excavated. All three of these sites are protected within the Boyd Conservation Area.

The 1.283 hectares (circa 3 acre) remnant of the Woodbridge Mackenzie Site forms a portion of the parkland dedication in a plan of subdivision by Almont Construction Limited.
