Reasons for Designation*375 St. George Street*Historical Reasons

The house at 375 St. George Street was built by its first owner E. C. Hayman, President of J. Hayman and Sons General Contractors. Hayman and later his widow lived in the house until the mid-1960s.

Architectural Reasons

This red brick Neo-Georgian house was built in 1930. The facade comprises three bays with a projecting frontispiece. This frontispiece is perhaps the most decorated component of the house with its columned portico with balustraded porch accessed by second floor door decorated with pilasters. The balustrade is wrought iron. The cornice is enlivened with a modillion-block treatment. There is an oculus in the broken front pediment. The entranceway comprises of a wooden front door and sidelights with multiple panes. This pattern is reflected in the second story. There are two small bay windows on the side of the house. Other features include quoins and copper eavestroughing and downspouts.
