BY-LAW NO. 90-31

SCHEDULE "A"

SHORT STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR THE PROPOSED DESIGNATION

The property is recommended for designation because of its architectural and historic interest. The house retains its basic form as a mid 19th Century log house, to which was added a turn-of-the-century exterior high lighted by a fine decorative porch. In its early years it was the home of several families of local mill-workers and, in 1925, became the home of several families of local mill-workers and, in 1925, became the home of a significant village inhabitant Johny Bolton. The Johny Bolton house is one-and-one-half stories with a recent addition to the rear. Built of hand-hewn squared logs with dove-tail corners, the roof is of medium/low pitch with butted sawn rafters. Its exterior is covered with turn-of-the century cove siding and the porch is highlighted by turned columns and elaborate fretwork. The present windows are also turn-of-the-century two over two sashes and the door has two clear lites and transverse upper lite of red glass. Evidence shows two late nineteenth century brick chimneys at each gable end. The house sits close to the front property line, typical of early village homes, with gardens to the rear. A fine hand-hewn log barn remains in its original rear location, sitting on rubble stone foundations.
