Built in 1897, the King Street Bridge is a rare example of a single-span, pin-connected Pratt through truss in Ontario and is the only of its kind in London. Designed in part by local bridge builder Isaac Crouse, it was constructed for vehicular/pedestrian use and a sewerage system across the Thames River south of the Forks of the Thames, and is recognized as a local landmark.

Any person who objects to any intended designation must, within thirty days after the date of the first publication, serve on the City Clerk a notice of objection in writing, setting out the reason for the objection and all relevant facts. The Ontario Heritage Act provides that where a notice of objection has been served, the Council shall refer the matter to the Conservation Review Board for a hearing.
