SCHEDULE "A"

To By-law No. L.S.P.-3226-416

Lot 1 on the east side of Smith Street, Plan 461 and part of Lot 4 on the north side of May Street, according to Plan 461 in the City of London and County of Middlesex as in Instrument No. 924847.

SCHEDULE "B"

To By-law No. L.S.P.-3226-416

Built in 1912 of concrete block, the house at 78 Smith Street is an uncommon variant of the cottages found on Smith Street. The house at 76 Smith is a red brick version of the house, but 78 Smith is more akin to houses found at 7 and 9 Cover Street, 75 Wilson and 24 Cynthia. Like these other examples, it is unusual for a building to be completely faced in concrete block, though it was not uncommon to find concrete being used for foundations and decorative elements. Overall, the use of prefabricated concrete components and references to classical architecture reflect advances in concrete production as well as the influence of Edwardian Classicism which dominated early Twentieth century architectural in Canada.

The concrete blocks at 78 Smith were manufactured in a variety of ways and creatively used. Ashlar blocks were used on the facade and paired with faceted blocks for the quoining. Rusticated block is used for the foundation and bay window. A column in the composite order highlights the main entrance. The front window has a stained glass, semi-circular arched window which is embellished with a decorated concrete surround with a keystone.

The side hall plan with a recessed entrance is embellished with fretwork. The original front door with an oval window and stained glass transom is still extant. The front end gable has decorative shingling. A bay window on the south elevation has a flat roof.
