SCHEDULE "A"

Reasons for Designation:

The Granary is considered to be one of those rare survivals of the simple functional building of the nineteenth century. It is a well proportioned structure of warm brown local stone and light grey Kingston Limestone brought to Oakville as ballast. It is referred to in Hazel C. Mathew's book Oakville and the Sixteen as having been built by William Francis Romain and Peter A. MacDougald. The designation is to protect both the internal and external portions of the structure.
