SCHEDULE 'A' TO BY-LAW NO. 447-93

STATEMENT OF THE REASONS FOR THE PROPOSED DESIGNATION

The Staff House, St. Lawrence Starch Limited, 141 Lakeshore Road East is recommended for heritage designation for reasons of its historical, architectural and contextual significance.

The Staff House was designed by architect A. Bruce Etherington, built 1958. The two storey structure consists of a solid brick-clad ground floor which acts as a base or stem to the upper floor of glass from floor to ceiling that projects out over the base. The building structure consists of open web steel joists, laminated timber floor deck, and structural steel frames. The built up bituminous roof is curved and concave in form, with access to the second storey by two asymmetrical curving exterior stairs, each covered with a corresponding canopy at either end of the structure. The curving curtain wall of glass and metal provides probably the finest example of 1950's Contempo Modernist design within the City of Mississauga. The building was designed for staff and houses washrooms, an office, and locker rooms on the ground level, whereas the second storey was used as a cafeteria/assembly area with kitchen facilities.

St. Lawrence Starch had been an active employer and contributor to the Port Credit Community since 1889. It is significant that a long-term industrial plant such as St. Lawrence Starch would have gone to the expense and effort of having an architecturally designed facility such as the Staff House built for their employees. This building signifies the corporate concern that St. Lawrence Starch had for its employees and the relationship with the community.

Contextually the Staff House is located behind the Administration Building very visible from the roadway and the open space of Black Walnut trees. The relationship of the Staff House and the Administration Building again emphasizes the relationship of the corporation and its employees thereby signifying the importance of the corporation to the community.
