SCHEDULE "A"

THE AMELIASBURGH SCHOOL - S.S. #12 in the Township of Ameliasburgh more particularly described as Lot 90, Plan 2RM, Township of Ameliasburgh.

The Ameliasburgh School - S.S. #12 at the western entrance to Roblin's Mills has been called the best preserved of Prince Edward County's one-room schools. Built of stone in circa 1848, its age is reflected in the low pitch of the roof and the well-defined eaves return. There are two entrances located on either side of the building. Alongside are three windows, each fitted with twelve-over-eight sash. The building is actually of two sections, the older part to the rear and a later 1890's extension to the front. During restoration, the belfry was returned to the crest of the roof. The former S.S. #12 School is the oldest public building in Ameliasburgh.
