(i) REASONS FOR PROPOSED DESIGNATION OF ORANGE LODGE HALL

The Orange Lodge Hall which was situated at Victoria Corners was built in the early 1860's. Although there have been some later changes, it is felt that it is typical of the small rural public buildings of that period.

It has served as an Orange Lodge Hall for well over 100 years as well as hosting many other social activities of the community - concerts, church social meetings, bridal showers, etc. It is of frame and plank construction placed on a timber frame base which in turn rests on a stone foundation. The medium pitch of the roof identifies it with that particular period. In order to preserve it, the building was moved to the Museum grounds where it was set down on a stone foundation. It will be used for displays, craft demonstrations and meetings.

(ii) REASONS FOR PROPOSED DESIGNATION OF THE FIFTH LINE CHURCH

Previously known as the Russell's Church and later the Forsyth Church served the Methodist-Episcopalian congregation when it was built in 1870. Its frame construction covered with board and batten siding is set on a timber frame base and stone foundation. The medium pitch of the roof is typical of that period of time. It is a good example of the small rural churches of the period. It has served the community's religious needs for 100 years. To preserve this church complete with furnishings it was moved from its original location on Brock Road to the Museum grounds to be set down on a stone foundation.
